

Quota Eisteddfod is on High!

By Laurie Koranski

Quota Beenleigh's Annual Eisteddfod is set to hit a high note with 15,000 participants travelling from as far afield as Victoria to compete in the categories of music, speech and drama and dance.

The 26 day extravaganza celebrates the Arts by engaging youth to explore their creativity, hone their performance skills, build relationships and have fun.

Since inception in 1986, support for the annual event has steadily grown with several competitors going on to compete nationally and internationally.

Now in its 29th year, former entrants are bringing their students to take part in the eisteddfods.

"Every year we get bigger" said music convenor Kaye Rossmann.

"But there is always room for more competitors, more schools entering from Logan would be great" she said.

The annual eisteddfod is Quota Beenleigh's major community service programme and primary fundraising event.
